In regards to Microsoft's suit. I honestly feel that Microsoft did nothing wrong, nor did they try to Monopolyze PC's by placing their Browser on Desktop's. I just think that if someone comes up with an idea first, that they should be allowed to go with it. If Microsoft is smart and quick enough to beat others at doing this, why should they be punished.

Well, this has been going on for such a long time and now comes the time to deal out the punishment and Microsoft has to pay up. The current settlement given is, I think, fair and Microsoft should be left alone to go forward in the name of technology.

This is my opinion.
